ABSTRACT

This research is motivated by a number of problems that researchers consider important. The problem raised about the role of the OSIS Student Council on students' social skills, whether the OSIS Student Council role indeed benefits the development of students' social skills, because based on the problems found in the field, gives an overview that OSIS Student Council sometimes gives a positive influence on students' social skills, and sometimes OSIS Student Council does not provide benefits effective for students' social skills, while essentially the role of the OSIS Student Council is to develop students' social skills. Therefore the researcher put a sense of curiosity and formulated the issue of whether the OSIS Student Council had a positive influence on students' social pregnancy, and if there was an influence how much influence it had on social skills. In this case the researcher took the subject of research to the members of the OSIS Student Council of SMAIT INSANI, Sukabumi City. By knowing the answer from this research, the researcher can find out whether it is in accordance with the theory proposed by Kurt Lewin, which states that the strength of the environment has greater influence on the formation of behavior than the factors within the individual itself. Data collection was taken by questionnaire instrument, testing the hypothesis using simple correlation. From the results of the analysis of the data that has been done, from the results of hypothesis testing, it is known that there is a positive influence between the participation of students of SMAIT INSANI in Sukabumi City on their social skills and their influence is 60.3%. So it was concluded that the role of SMAIT INSANI OSIS Student Council was very effective in developing students' social skills.
