TEACHER'S STRATEGIES AND STUDENTS’ RESPONSES IN TEACHING LISTENING SKILL IN THE LANGUAGE LABORATORY
(A case study in a Junior High School in Tanjung Pinang)

A THESIS
Submitted in partial fulfillment of the requirements for Master’s degree in English Education

By
PETRUS EDI SUCAHYO
0603786

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT
SCHOOL OF POSTGRADUATE STUDIES
INDONESIA UNIVERSITY OF EDUCATION
2009
TEACHER'S STRATEGIES AND STUDENTS' RESPONSES IN TEACHING LISTENING SKILL IN THE LANGUAGE LABORATORY
(A case study in a Junior High School in Tanjung Pinang)

By:
Petrus Edi Sucahyo
Reg.No.0603786

Approved by:

Dr. Dadang Sudana, M.A.
(Main Supervisor)

Dr. Yoyo Surjakusumah, M.Pd.
(Co. Supervisor)

Dr. Emi Emilia, M.A.
Examiner

Prof. Dr. E. Aminudin Aziz, M.A.
Examiner
DECLARATION OF OWNERSHIP

I hereby certify that this thesis entitled “TEACHER’S STRATEGIES AND STUDENTS’ RESPONSES IN TEACHING LISTENING SKILL IN THE LANGUAGE LABORATORY” (A Case Study in a Junior High School in Tanjung Pinang) is honestly my own work. I am fully aware that I have quoted some statements and ideas from various sources, and they are properly acknowledged in the text.

Bandung, July 2009

Petrus Edi Sucahyo
PREFACE

Praise God that the writer has finally finished writing his thesis entitled “Teacher’ Strategies and Students’ Responses in Teaching Listening Skill in the Language Laboratory” (A Case Study in a Junior High School in Tanjung Pinang) is aimed at investigating how far the English teacher of a Junior High School in Tanjung Pinang applied Strategies to teach listening skill in the language laboratory and to know students’ responses toward teacher’s strategies.

This study was conducted to carry out improvement especially in applying strategies to teach listening skill in the language laboratory. It is also expected that it is going to be useful for the readers who are interested in teaching listening skill in the language laboratory.

This thesis is submitted in partial fulfillment of the requirements for Master’s degree in English Education of Indonesia University of Education. The writer realizes that this thesis is far from being perfect, thus, he really appreciates any suggestion and criticism for the betterment of this thesis writing.

Bandung, July 2009

Petrus Edi Sucahyo.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express my great appreciation, gratitude to my supervisors Dadang Sudana, M.A., Ph.D. as the main supervisor and Dr. Yoyo Surjakusumah, M.Pd. as my co-supervisor, who have patiently supervised and encouraged me in conducting the research. I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my academic supervisor Iwa Lukmana, M.A., Ph.D. for his kindness and assistance that motivated me to initiate this thesis.

A great respect and special thanks also go to the Head of English Department, Dr. Emi Emilia, M.Ed., Ph.D., Prof. A. Chaedar Alwasilah, M.A., Ph.D., Prof. Dr. Nanden Sri Lengkanawati M.Pd., Dr. Bachrudin Musthafa, M.A., Prof. E. Aminudin Aziz, M.A., Dr. Didi Suherdi, M.Ed., Dr. Odo Fadloeoli, MA, Dr. Rd Safrina Noorman, M.A, who they always gave me guidance and motivation during my study at Universitas Pendidikan Indonesia (UPI).

Special gratitude is expressed to ibu Linda as the headmistress and Ibu Dewi Untari as the participant who allowed me to conduct this study in this junior high school.

I also want to express my gratitude to my beloved parents, my beloved wife and daughter, my sisters, brothers, and my colleagues for their supports during my study.

Petrus Edi Sucahyo
ABSTRACT

This study is concerned with teacher’s strategies and students’ responses in teaching listening in the language lab. It used a case study research design involving one English teacher and seventy-two grade VII students of a junior high school in Tanjung Pinang conducted on February 12th-23rd, 2009. It aims to figure out teacher’s strategies in teaching listening in the language laboratory, their strengths and weaknesses, and the students’ responses toward teacher’s strategies. It utilized a set of method to get data i.e. observation, interview, questionnaire, and supported by document analysis.

The findings of this study show that the teacher has good understanding of strategies in teaching listening. The teacher’s strategies in teaching listening in the language laboratory are relevant to the theory of language teaching highlighted by Lado (1979), Peterson (1991 as cited in Brown, 2001), Harmer (2001), Vandergrift (1996 in Rost, 2002), Berne in Osada (2004), Howatt and Dakin in Mohammed (2005). Regarding the strengths of the strategies, the teacher could help the students more easily to master listening and speaking skills. The teacher believes that language laboratory is more effective and beneficial to teach English rather than in the classroom.

The weaknesses of the strategies are caused by the teacher inability to operate the master control well. Besides, the difficulty is caused by the use of native-based cassettes and VCDs media as the students could not follow the speakers’ pronunciation and intonation. However, the students are easier to comprehend the material of listening if it non-native voice or by the teacher herself. For this the teacher uses cassettes or CDs taken from Singapore.

The students responded positively toward the English teacher’s strategies. They felt interested, comfortable, and more active when they studied English in the language laboratory. They admitted that their knowledge of English especially listening and speaking skills had increased.